

SEA ADVENTURES

Volume 02-1

Aboard the M/V "Alaska Adventurer"

Our winter nap is finally over, and the crew at Alaska Sea Adventures is welcoming the new cruising year! A little groundhog told us that spring is just around the corner, so we hope the year of 2002 is shaping up to be one of peace, happiness and prosperity for everyone. 'May the best day of your past be the worst day of your future!' Speaking of the past, this past summer of cruising the awesome Alaska Inside Passage was so fantastic that it all seems like a dream now. It is with great pleasure that I recall all the wonderful memories and experiences that our new and returning guests were treated to. From the helm of the Alaska Adventurer what seems most remarkable to me, trip after trip, was being blessed with such tremendous guests accompanying us on our voyages. It certainly makes our job satisfying and easy when our guests are happy and thrilled to experience the beauty and wonder of Alaska's scenery and wildlife. It is because of this that we are bursting with anticipation as we put together plans for the 2002 summer season.

Although there are rumors that Alaskans hibernate in the winter just like our bears, we're actually pretty busy doing the 'behind the scenes' work now that normally goes unnoticed when the actual cruise is underway. Besides all of the mechanical, seasonal and cosmetic maintenance we perform on the vessel, there is a ton of paperwork that is required by a list of government agencies.

Southeast Alaska, as well as much of Alaska, is owned by the Federal Government and managed by the U.S.D.A. Forest Service. The Forest Service restricts access to some of the more popular locations in the Tongass National Forest to avoid overuse and destruction of sensitive land and wildlife. Permits are only given to those with a prior use history and on a first come basis. During the winter we figure out when and where we will apply for Tongass forest access permits, working with those of you who have already made reservations and planning additional cruises for the summer. And you thought we just pulled up anchor spontaneously in search of the next gorgeous Alaskan hideaway!

2002 Special Guided Adventures

Once again Alaska Sea Adventures is proud to offer a super selection of exciting guided expeditions with some of the best guides available. We are very fortunate to have access to a host of professional guides in a large variety of activities and interests, enabling us to create a customized excursion that caters to the special desire of any group. Making arrangements for a custom guided trip does require a certain amount of time and planning, so if you're considering a group excursion, it's best to start planning now. Give us a call and we'll start working with you right away to start planning the cruise of a lifetime!

Fly-fishing for Steelhead Trout

We start of the year with four fly fishing trips with master fly fishing guide & instructor Rich Culver from Juneau based FlyWater Adventures. The first of these exclusive trips will offer a chance to explore some seldom-fished watersheds for the elusive steelhead and will present a thrilling adventure to great locations.

Fly Fishing Trips

By Rich Culver

Steelhead

April 14th - 20th      April 22nd - 28th

April 30th - May 6th      May 8th - 14th

Silvers

Sept. 17th - 23rd      Sept. 25th - Oct. 1st

Once again, it's time to preview another season. This year, we're extremely excited about the very special fly fishing programs that we have to offer with Alaska Sea Adventures. None of our programs reflect lodge-based, or tent camp programs generic to many regions of Alaska. Instead, our programs are "mobile" and are based on a mother ship, which makes them unique to the fly fishing community. Our trips and expeditions combine the thrills and adventures of wilderness fly fishing with personalized instruction, small group guiding, local discussions on our region's natural history and of course, fine Alaskan cuisine. This year, we'll be offering three types of fly-fishing excursions and expeditions, all of which cater to fly rodders of all levels of skill and interests.

We'll launch off the 2002 season navigating remote wilderness waters in search of trophy steelhead. These turbo-charged, sea-run rainbows are the standard to which all freshwater game fish are measured. Extremely acrobatic, these river-run warriors are our region's best kept secret. Over the past nine years, Rich Culver of Flywater Adventures has pioneered steelhead fishing on a fly in Southeast waters. Rich was the featured guide on ESPN's "Fly Fishing America" and "Fly Fishing the World" during their Alaska steelhead programs. His easygoing style, intimate knowledge of the fish and passion for the sport has brought clients back repeatedly year after year.

Our steelhead season begins with a trip for anglers who desire (or insist on) absolute adventure. Entirely exploratory, this expedition will highlight a first hand look at some of North America's last, unspoiled, wild steelhead systems. We'll explore and fish several remote estuaries and bays along the outer reaches of the South Prince of Wales Island Wilderness, a cluster of islands just north of the US/Canadian border that is seldom visited by sport anglers. If adventure and steelhead exploration appeals to you, then you are invited to join us on this limited expedition that is soon to become a "must do" trip in the fly fishing circle.

Following our exploratory adventure we'll continue to sample Southeast Alaska's spring steelhead runs as we sail northward, stopping to fish estuary systems and nameless bays for mint bright steelhead along the way. Steelhead in our local waters run 8 to 16 pounds with an average of 12-pound. Generally speaking, most of our steelhead fishing closely resembles New Zealand's trophy trout fishing, where watersheds flow gin clear from steep rain forest canyons laced with tumbled down trees. There's walking and stalking involved and sight casting to personal pods or solitary fish are more the rule than the exception. These trips offer fly rodders some of the best opportunities in North America to intercept these magnificent and

Our mid-summer program in July is the ideal fly fishing trip for those who seek a combination of exceptional fly fishing, abundant wildlife viewing and natural history. During July, our rivers and coastal streams literally become clogged with returning salmon and sea-run char. Bald eagles and brown bears crowd the shores of estuaries, rivers and creeks and this virtually ensures not only spectacular wildlife viewing, but also breathtaking photographic opportunities. With five different species of fish present at this time of the summer (chum, pink and sockeye salmon, cutthroat trout and dolly varden char), this trip is a “natural” for families, fly rodders from novice to intermediate, or any person who seeks Alaskan adventure and solitude with fly fishing and wildlife. At this time of the year, a local abundance of humpback whales feeding and frolicking in the area adds an extra bonus to an already fantastic fly fishing adventure.

Come fall we'll turn our attention to silvers! Each year fly rodders from all over the world flock to Alaskan waters to intercept these remarkable fish. If tidewater fishing for chrome bright, acrobatic cohos gets your adrenaline flowing then expect to join us this fall as we travel to some of our area's best waters—far away from other sport anglers. The cohos in our local waters are large and robust, and they have a statewide reputation of peeling fly line from reels at will. They are also heavily laden with sea lice as most of our angling occurs as silvers first enter the estuaries. With the M/V Alaska Adventurer as our traveling base, we'll fish different waters daily, unless the fishing is simply too hot to move. If it's Alaskan silver salmon on a fly that you desire, these are the trips for you!

BIRDING OPPORTUNITY

By Jack Eddy

Captain Dennis Rogers and naturalist/guide Jack Eddy are teaming up to offer a unique birding excursion in June 2002. This adventure will provide the opportunity to observe and photograph Arctic terns in their glacial moraine-nesting habitat. We will visit the nesting colonies of murre, pigeon guillemots and gulls. We will watch bald eagle parents and other bird species feed their young. During this time of year, most of Southeast Alaska bird species are still in their nesting habitat. The bird parents can be seen busily feeding and caring for their young. We will safely and unobtrusively observe and photograph this important cycle of nature. The more adventurous at heart may be able to touch and walk on a glacier, observe and photograph brown bear, visit a sea lion rookery, and explore old abandoned fur farms, cannery sites, and homesteads. Humpback whales and other marine mammals abound in the waters that will be visited on this excursion.

Come and experience Southeast Alaska during this important and exciting cycle of nature.

“In the Wake of the Old Mail-Boat”

June 26th - July 2nd.

At the end of June, Alaska Sea Adventures will offer its first summer natural history trip of the season with a historically epic voyage retracing the route of the last southeast Alaska mail boat. This cruise back in time will explore the heritage and locations where fox-farms, abandoned villages, canneries, mines and homesteads once stood. Local fisherman, author, poet and historian Dennis Sperl will guide this enchanted journey, following the path of his father, who ran the last of the mail-boats on this run!

As we cruise along the spectacular inland waterways aboard the Alaska Adventurer, Mr. Sperl will share his memories of riding along with dad on mail-boat routes. Dennis is a master storyteller, who weaves education and humor with a unique and interesting selection of local history. We can pretty much guarantee you will leave this trip with sore ribs from laughter!

Areas encompassed in this voyage include wonderful Frederick Sound, Stephens Passage and Chatham Strait where hundreds of humpback whales play at this time of year. We'll also be cruising Gambier Bay and some of the other intriguing bays of Admiralty Island National Monument. In this area we have a great chance of encountering a bounty of shrimp and crab as well as some of the mighty Alaskan brown bear. Each of our guests on this wonderful cruise will also receive an autographed copy of Sperl's new book "IN THE WAKE OF AN ALASKAN MAILBOAT".

"Focus on Whales of Southeast Alaska"

July 6th - 12th.

The protected waters of Alaska's Inside Passage and in particular Frederick Sound presents whale watching opportunities like no place else on earth. With the summer gathering of many hundreds of whales that have migrated from the winter in Hawaii, it is here that whales perform their unique ballet of cooperative 'bubble feeding' activity that seems to be exclusive to this area. Alaska Sea Adventures is pleased to welcome back wildlife photographer and natural history guide Jim Nahmens to lead us in this spectacular voyage. Jim will share his in-depth knowledge of these remarkable creatures gathered from years of experience with humpback whale research projects in Western Australia, Hawaii and Alaska.

Jim has a unique blend of observational skills and local knowledge that comes only with years of experience in the field.

This will be an exciting cruise where the Alaska Adventurer will be stationed in the midst of one of the world's largest populations of humpback whales! It should also be mentioned that we will also be cruising and anchoring in the beautiful bays of Admiralty Island National Monument, known by the local natives as 'Kootznahoo' (fortress of the brown bear). Along with all the whales, bears, kayaking, crabbing and shrimping, this voyage will be a virtual smorgasbord of southeast Alaskan offerings.

Natural History "Voyage to Coronation Island"

July 23rd - 29th.

Alaska Sea Adventures Capt. Dennis Rogers and naturalist/ guide, Jack Eddy is once again very excited to offer this excursion to the remote coastal gem Coronation Island. This was a spectacular cruise last year and the entire crew looks forward to returning to this rich and diverse area again this year. Besides our visit to the seldom traveled, remote beauty of Coronation Island, our expedition was complimented with a fantastic tour of the recently discovered El Capitan Cave. We'll most definitely include the El Capitan Cave visit this year, where newly discovered artifacts are rewriting the ancient history of North America. Other stops on this epic journey will include watching black bears feed on salmon in beautiful streams, visiting an ancient Tlingit village site, seeing the namesake stone 'totems' of Totem Bay, visit an old gold mine area and a stop at the isolated tiny community of Pt. Baker, which boasts 'Alaska's last floating saloon'. This trip was one of the top highlights of last summer and a lot of fun, so we can't wait to see who will be joining us for this year's Coronation Island cruise.

Note: Alaska Sea Adventures is thrilled to announce that Jack Eddy was selected to represent Alaska in the Olympic Torch Relay. When the flame made its way through Juneau in January, Jack valiantly carried the torch and made us all proud. The selection committee could not have chosen a better person for the honor and it highlights Jack's commitment to being a champion educator and an incredible Alaskan!

A NATURALIST GUIDE REFLECTS ON THE 2001 CORONATION ISLAND ADVENTURE

By Jack Eddy

What is the recipe for a great and memorable Southeast Alaska excursion onboard the Alaska Adventurer? Well, that recipe could vary, but we certainly had near perfect ingredients for our 2001 trip. We had excellent weather, nice guests that were willing and eager to experience the Alaska wilderness, a comfortable vessel, delicious gourmet meals, an energetic crew, beautiful scenery and abundant wildlife.

We saw most of the marine mammals that ply the nutrient rich waters of Southeast Alaska during the summer season including a number of encounters to observe spectacular displays of humpback whales. We observed and identified numerous bird species. We experienced the excitement of catching Alaska salmon and halibut. We watched and visited with commercial fishermen up close and personal. We explored beautiful fog shrouded islands and ventured beneath the earth's surface in carst caves. The entire group got to observe fishing black bears from the safety and comfort of small skiffs, and for those that desired a little more adventure, we safely got within feet of the fishing black bear as we walked up a beautiful, secluded salmon stream. What a photo opportunity!

our observations and adventures. We all walked away with great memories and new friends. From the perspective of a naturalist/guide, the trip couldn't have been much better

There you have the highlights of Alaska Sea Adventures featured 2002 summer expeditions. It should be noted that it is the standard operating procedure for everyone to have a ball and enjoy a multitude of activities on all of the cruises we offer. From setting the crab and shrimp pots, to dipping a line for the elusive big halibut, wrangling for the quick & wily Dungeness crab, taking a paddle with the sea kayaks, a stroll on a secluded beach, to searching for trout in a hidden valley stream, we enjoy an endless array of possibilities to have F-U-N! Be sure to give us a call for more details and don't delay getting your reservations as space is very limited on these trips. There are also still some open trips for creating a custom adventures for families and groups, but these dates are also filling up fast.

A WORD FROM CAPTAIN DENNIS

I derive a lot of pleasure performing the research for these trips and working with guides to formulate a unique experience for our clients. It also continually reminds me of what a special place Southeast Alaska is with all of its diverse beauty and rich heritage. It is through this realization that I understand why I have such a deep passion and appreciation for this area. Not only do I gain a greater personal knowledge of Southeast Alaska researching the information for a specific trip, I am enhanced with local knowledge that I will be able to share on each voyage the Alaska Adventurer embarks upon. I also think it's a lot of fun to work with our groups creating a custom trip that encompasses all of the interests of the group and as many wonders of the Inside Passage as possible during the course of the voyage. So, as life slowly begins to awaken from winter here in this little Alaska island town of Petersburg, I look forward to seeing each of you already signed up to travel with us this summer. I assure those of you that have not signed up yet that you will not want to miss the opportunity to experience the real Alaska that no one else can show you like we strive to on the Alaska Adventurer.

Be sure to watch in the next edition of our newsletter for an article about our newly discovered secret source of fresh oysters. We made a discovery this past summer of an oyster farm near the Tlingit Indian village of Kake that can provide us with a supply of the most delicious fresh oysters found on earth. We'll give a little history about the farm, it's owner 'oysterman Tom', and the superb sea kayaking around this area.

As a recipient of this newsletter you have advance notice of Alaska Sea

We hope this may help you obtain a front row seat to a real Alaskan adventure presented with precious local knowledge in one of the earth's most beautiful natural arenas. We specialize in creating custom cruises based on each particular group's interest. Bring us your ideas and let's sit down in the chart room and plan a voyage like no other. As always, Alaska Sea Adventures has the regional advantage of being a true locally owned and operated company and we're very proud to share 'our' Alaska with you!
